Account-by-account projection for 2026-2055

Prepared: 23-Oct-2026 12:52:37 PM

1. Executive Summary

- Starting Assets: $2,611,500.00
- Projected Ending Assets: $546,902.89
- Assets Last Through Final Year: Yes
- Projection Horizon Ends: 2055
- Projected Depletion Year: None
- Final Year Total Tax: $21,701.50
- Total Projected Withdrawals: $4,263,678.98
- Total Projected RMD Withdrawals: $158,026.24
- Total Projected HSA Contributions: $0.00
- Total Projected HSA Healthcare Withdrawals: $0.00
- Monte Carlo Final Assets P10: $-495,920.06
- Monte Carlo Final Assets Median: $546,902.89
- Monte Carlo Final Assets P90: $4,686,894.35

2. Key Assumptions

- Planned Annual Spending: $96,000.00
- Inflation Rate: 3.00%
- Federal Tax Handling: effective_rate
- State: CT
- RMD Start Age: 73
- Auto Fund Shortfall: Yes
- Withdrawal Tax Priority: taxable_tax_deferred_tax_free
- Withdrawal Owner Priority: older_first
- Withdrawal Allocation Method: drain_one_then_next
- Bucket Expense Years: 3.0
- Monte Carlo Simulations: 250

- Monte Carlo Seed: 42

3. Key Warnings / Observations

- Assets are projected to last through the full forecast horizon.
- Intermediate is projected below its target floor in 2052.
- Long-Term is projected below its target floor in 2026.
- RMD withdrawals begin in 2047 under the current assumptions.
- Projected taxes increase materially over the forecast horizon.
- Monte Carlo downside shows a meaningfully weaker ending-asset buffer.
- Forecast results are planning estimates and depend on current assumptions, tax tables, and actual balance updates.

10. Modeling Limitations

- Forecast results are planning estimates based on the current workbook inputs and assumptions.
- Actual returns, expenses, taxes, and withdrawal timing will differ from the modeled path.
- Bracket-based tax mode currently models federal ordinary-income brackets plus Connecticut ordinary-income tax, but not Social Security taxation, capital gains, credits, AMT, or IRMAA.
- Future tax law changes are not automatically projected beyond the selected tax model and inflation mode.
- Forecast accuracy depends on keeping Actual Balances up to date and revisiting assumptions regularly.
- Monte Carlo output is a modeled range, not a prediction of actual market results.

Planning projection only. Not individualized tax, legal, Social Security, health insurance, or investment advice.
